

ABSTRACT

Subst. 7
E1 at

The invention is a method of measuring transfer functions of a physical system using a wideband excitation signal comprising the steps of exciting the system with a low-power, wide band input signal that has a rich frequency content over a wide band and using a stochastic process to derive a system transfer function over the excitation signal bandwidth.

5
Z:\Client\SARA\PATENT\CASPER.LIP\latest version 3.0 did 8-21-98.wpd

068290-496745-0